Yes her name is Elizabeth and that's so sweet of you to do! When I got her she literally only had five shirts and three jeans in a garbage bag; they didn't give her any toys even though I'm told she had a ton at her former parents house. We've bought her stuff now of course but we're building from scratch!

You know, just a suggestion, but I know Discovery is into helping the community--if you don't do it yet, the foster care programs really could use support. These kids are removed from the homes in 30 minutes and they can only take what they can put in a garbage bag--they don't even have suitcases to give these kids so many think they're garbage because their stuff is put in garbage bags. I'm thinking of trying to arrange a fundraiser where at least suitcases are donated so they at least can leave their home w/ a little dignity.

That's okay, I certainly understand (now more than ever!) Things are going well however she's just now coming to terms that she's lost both of her parents, so that's been difficult as you can imagine. Plus she started Kindergarten today, which is always confusing and scary even if you have both parents. She has her up and down moments but we're getting her into counseling to try to help her through it. Thanks for asking!

Hi Elisa,

Per our phone discussion, we have chosen the following networks for distribution on the IPTV service:

Discovery Channel
Discovery Kids
Animal Planet
Discovery Home/Planet Green
Military Channel

We are very excited about carrying Discovery's channels and we appreciate everything you and the Discovery team did to work it out.

Sincerely,
Kathy

P.S. By the way, Elizabeth loved the gifts! She said that the butterfly science game was what she wanted for her birthday last April and didn't get!

Subject: FW: Discovery Draft Agreement

Elisa: I have reviewed the Draft Agreement and have only one request. The definition of "Affiliate System", Section 1.1, pertains specifically to "cable television systems" only. For our purposes it needs to be expanded to acknowledge our right to utilize IPTV technology. The following is language defining an Affiliate System that includes IPTV technology taken from another signed Agreement with a top ten channel: "Affiliate System(s) shall also mean the IP System (as defined below) that is Solely Managed (as defined below) by Affiliate and is located wholly within the Territory. "IP System" shall mean a multichannel video distribution system which utilizes Internet protocol ("IP") or MPEG technology to deliver video programming services over a closed and encrypted transmission path over a national fiber-optic network and a high-speed data connection that may be a digital subscriber line (commonly referred to as 'DSL', 'ADSL', or 'VDSL'), cable or other broadband connection in a subscriber's home ("High-Speed Data Connection") to the secure IP address of a Set-Top Box (as defined below) that is connected to Subscriber's television set(s). "Set-Top Box" shall mean a set-top box that is secured by industry-standard encryption and conditional access technologies and located in the Territory. "Solely Managed" shall mean that Affiliate possesses sole management authority with respect to the operations of the IP System, including, without limitation, the authority to make all programming decisions on behalf of such IP System and bind such IP System to all programming agreements, and Affiliate shall be fully liable for the payment of all fees incurred hereunder and for the performance of all such IP System's obligations. "

This language could be added to Section 1.1 or replace the current language in Section 1.1 (in which case Section 1.1.1, defining a cable television system, would be unnecessary). I offer this as a suggestion only and would be glad to review any other language you think is appropriate and accomplishes the purpose of recognizing that we will be using IPTV technology.

I would look forward to receiving your thoughts and of proceeding with the execution of a final draft as soon as possible. Thanks in advance for your consideration. Have a great day! Tom
